You notice Mark the reporter in the corner of the dance hall, typing away. He's now a little balding and sporting a beard that reminds you of Toby Ziegler from that old show your parents used to watch, The West Wing. He catches your eye and grins. "How's it going, Hypatia?"

"Well," you say. "What's the story you're writing now about?"

"Robot romance," he says. "What do you think about all the robot couples?"

Flame leans in to attend your answer.

- "I think everybody needs to find their own path to happiness, and that may mean marrying a robot."
- "Robots are too subservient to provide real love. A real relationship is a give and take."
- "I think you should join us, rotate partners, and find out what it's like yourself."
